NEW ATTRACTION LAUNCHED AT GREENWOOD FOREST PARK

National Leisure Contractor Western Log Group (WLG), has just completed a new outdoor play attraction at GreenWood Forest Park, near Bangor, commissioned following the success of another WLG attraction 'TreeTop Towers' at the park, which, as part of a major investment package, saw visitor numbers increase by 20%.

'Tunnel Warren' has been constructed to offer younger children the opportunity to enjoy the features of 'TreeTop Towers' but on a smaller scale. Designed to aid the under 7s with their physical skills, the new attraction is based around an animal theme and includes an array of timber structures, plastic tunnels, wooden ramps, steps, rope bridges and slides.

Will Wain, of GreenWood Forest Park commented, "We were keen to create a sister attraction to TreeTop Towers which has proved to be such a success with our younger visitors since it opened in May 2006. We are confident TreeTop Towers has had a hand in the increase in visitors we experienced at the park in the last year."

Will added: "We hope Tunnel Warren can follow in the footsteps of TreeTop Towers and further increase the number of visitors we see at the park in 2007."

Mike James, leisure sales director at WLG added: "We are delighted GreenWood has experienced a surge in visitor numbers since the completion of our attraction in 2006. Tunnel Warren will be a mirror image of this attraction, but has been adapted to be more accessible and enjoyable for younger visitors."

GreenWood Forest Park has grown to become one of the region's leading family leisure attractions. The park's ethos is that fun and learning can have a low environmental impact. The park is also home to The Green Dragon, the world's first ever people powered roller coaster, which can also generate electricity.
